

Myles H. Alderman, Jr.

Alderman & Alderman, LLC, Hartford, CT. Myles founded Alderman & Alderman with his wife, Linda (retired), in 1992. His primary areas of practice include business reorganizations (Chapter 11's), workouts, commercial litigation, ADR, business law, and franchise law.

CBA Activities: Myles has been active in the CBA since 1986, when he first joined the Young Lawyers Section as co-chair of the commercial law subsection. He has written articles for the Connecticut Lawyer Magazine and spoken to CBA sections throughout his career. He wrote the Bankruptcy Law Chapter for several editions of the Connecticut Lawyers Deskbook. Since 2000, he has served on the Advisory Board of the Connecticut Lawyer Magazine. Myles has also been active on the committees for Professionalism and Professional Discipline since 2008 and served as Chair of the Professional Discipline Section from 2013-2015.

Education: Myles graduated cum laude from Syracuse University College of law, where he was Managing Editor of the Syr. J. of International Law & Commerce and awarded the LFE Goldie award for Outstanding Scholarship. He earned his BA in economics and psychology from Kenyon College. Between college and law school, he studied post-graduate Economics at University of Cambridge (England) and was a commercial loan officer in Columbus, Ohio.

Other: Myles is a Member of the ABA Business Law Section, and a Member of the Business Bankruptcy Section and UCC Section of the American Bankruptcy Institute. He formerly served two terms on the Human Rights Commission for the Town of West Hartford.